The pamphlet you choose can lead to any number of exciting outcomes. Where will you end up?

Many pamphlets address very serious issues: depression, finances, drug abuse, sexually transmitted diseases and transportation schedules. And some pamphlets merely want to sell you something you don't need, like consumer goods, timeshare condominiums and monthly passes for mass transit. Be careful! Serious pamphlets and sales pamphlets have a way of creating a spiral of brochure abuse that no printed publication can help with. Well, no, that's not true; we firmly believe that there's a pamphlet for everyone. It's important to choose carefully. Pamphlets with telephone numbers listed on them are often the most reliable selections since you can call that number for answers to any difficult questions. On the other side of the coin, pamphlets without phone numbers should be treated with a healthy dose of skepticism, or discarded entirely.

Good Luck!
